Meet Chris Hayden: Providing Warmth and Beauty One Stitch at a Time

Sitting by the fireplace while sipping coffee on a chilly January afternoon, it seemed fitting to be talking with Chris Hayden about her crocheted scarves, neck warmers, slouchy berets, baby hats, and cowls. Chris' products are displayed on a ladder shelf in the northeast corner at Your Place Coffee (YPC). They come in many different colors, shapes, and sizes and are made of the finest and softest yarns.

Chris has been selling her products at YPC for the past six months. She appreciates the fact that the customers have enjoyed her work and that they keep her busy making new stock to bring in. She loves to get feedback as well as ideas for new products from her customers.

Chris has been crocheting, knitting, and quilting since she was 18 years old. She is a voracious reader and enjoys finding new patterns to use. She plans to add a slouchy beret made of cotton for the spring.

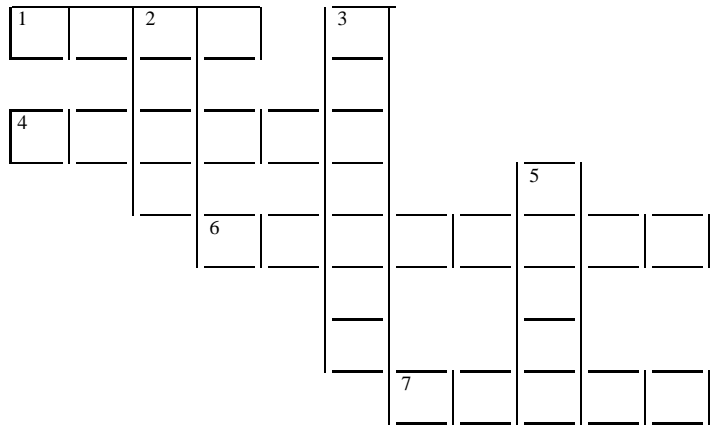

Chris was drawn to YPC as a place to sell her products due to its warm and comforting environment. Her favorite drink is the Peppermint Latte. Chris can February 14, 270 A.D. : Roman Emperor Claudius II, dubbed "Claudius the Cruel," beheaded a priest named Valentine for performing marriage ceremonies. Claudius II had outlawed marriages when Roman men began refusing to go to war in order to stay with their wives.

Hallmark has over 1330 different cards specifically for Valentine's Day.

In the Middle Ages, young men and women drew names from a bowl to see who their valentines would be. They would wear these names on their sleeves for one week. To wear your heart on your sleeve now means that it is easy for other people to know how you are feeling.

It wasn't until 1537 that St. Valentine's Day was declared an official holiday. England's King Henry VIII declared February 14th a holiday.

The 17th century a hopeful maiden ate a hard-boiled egg and pinned five bay leaves to her pillow before going to sleep on Valentine's eve. It was believed this would make her dream of her future husband.
